

IN THE JUNGLE

You arrive at the access door to the restricted area of the museum ... then feel a pang of dismay. They installed a password lock? That wasn't in the plans! Luckily, it appears two employees forgot the password, and left a note to help jog their memory. Seems like a fitting phrase for this frustrated pair...

I know we keep forgetting the password, but remember, look at the painting for help!

1. Identify interesting groups of things.

I found...

- A group forming a CARAVAN
- A group cooking with a CAULDRON
- A group with cause for CELEBRATION
- A group about to commit a MURDER
- A group causing utter PANDEMONIUM
- A group taking part in a PARADE
- A group with a bow and QUIVER
- A group lurking in a SHADOW
- A group ready to bring the THUNDER
- A group standing atop a TOWER
- A group showing enthusiastic ZEAL

2. Sort your groups in an interesting way.

I found the groups alphabetically, but it's the location of each group that matters...

3. Index into your groups to get letters.

But how? Let me count the ways...

4. Solve for the password

Sounds good — we can't lose our jobs!

