

Heading deeper into the temple, you come to a room that appears to contain a crypt. On the floor is space for three side-by-side stacks of banners - and there are twelve banners here, but they've scattered about and are somewhat moth-eaten (see below, bottom). On the wall of the crypt, you notice a strange carving (see below, top). With some study you can stack the banners correctly, You peer down at the banners - and luckily, you've brought a pair of scissors.

What were these banners used for?

First:	,
Second:

Finally (Answer):